New Line Cinema's Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles 4: The Next Mutation (What Might Have Been)

Prior to Saban's live action television show that aired on Fox Kids in 1997, The Next Mutation was going to be the title of a fourth live action movie. Kevin Eastman and Peter Laird were asked to come up with some new designs and powers for the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, as the film would have the mutagen in their bodies continue to change them, giving them new abilities, and new outfits.

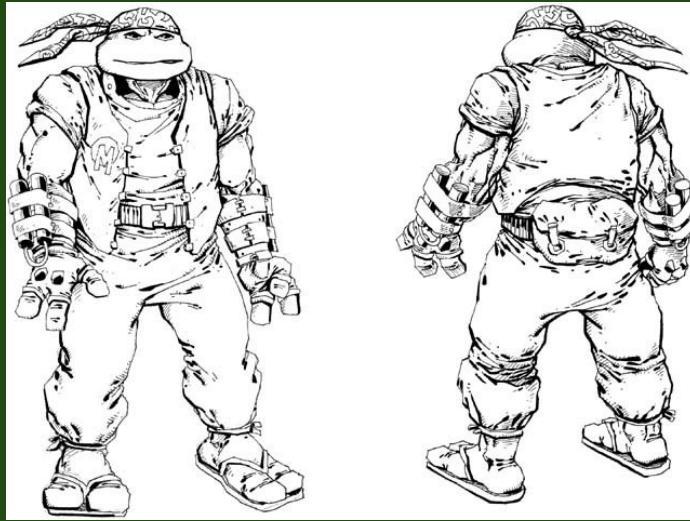

Donatello would have gotten telekinetic and telepathic abilities, although it would cause his eyesight to diminish.

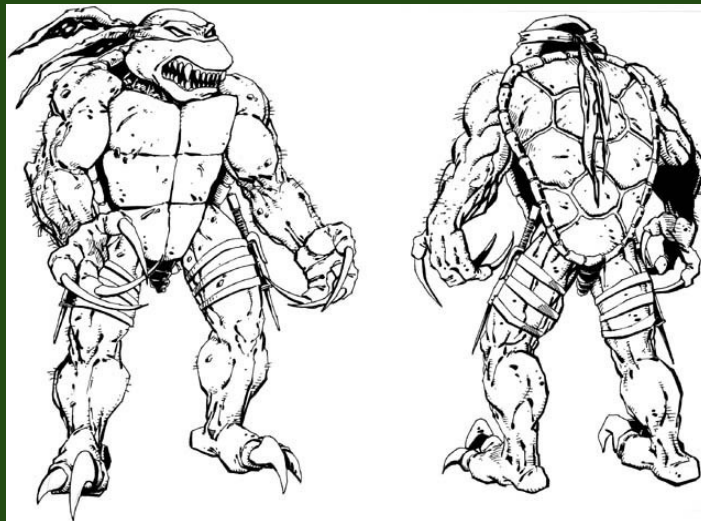

Leonardo's new mutation would be the ability to change his skin into some kind of nearly impenetrable chrome-like surface!

Michelangelo would have been gifted the ability to project a human appearance, allowing him to interact with the outside world.

Raphael would have gotten the power to temporarily morph into a monstrous raptor like state.
